MEMORANDUM FOR ACQUISITION MANAGEMENT BRANCH

SUBJECT: Blue to Green (B2G) Policy

This policy applies to military officers desiring to transition from another Service into the Army Acquisition Corps (AAC).

Junior officers requesting to transition from the United States Air Force (USAF) or the United States Navy (USN) into the Army Acquisition Corps must first be assigned to the Army as a basic branch (Combat Arms, Combat Support or Combat Service Support Division) officer through the B2G Program. Once requirements are met (see below), an officer may volunteer for accession into the AAC.

The AAC will continue to access officers into the Corps based on current requirements. Once all requirements are met, any officer, to include B2G program officers can volunteer for accession into the AAC by providing a memorandum to their basic branch with an information copy provided to the Acquisition Management Branch.

Current eligibility requirements are:

- Officer must be branch qualified at the company grade level
- Officer must be a graduate of a Captains Career Course
- Officer must have a Baccalaureate Degree; desired disciplines for either undergraduate or graduate level degree in business management, science, engineering or other technical fields

Usually at an officer's seventh (7th) year of Army service, they may apply for accession into AAC. At that time, the accession board will identify fully qualified officers to join. Exceptions to this policy must be approved by the Deputy Director, Acquisition Career Management (DDACM).
